The Selectmen are scheduled to discuss Monday the recommendation of a study committee that Andover invite the YMCA to establish a branch here.

The suggestion comes from a committee headed by Selectman Robert A. Watters which reported in July on the need for additional recreation facilities in this community.

Sun Ray Bakery Corp. of Methuen which previously expressed an interest in locating in Andover, has agreed to negotiate with the Methuen Redevelopment Authority for space in a proposed industrial park there.

Sun Ray sought information about industrial locations in both Andover and North Andover when it ran into zoning problems over its plans for expansion at its present Methuen location.

John Fauver, 8 Sunset Rock Rd., reported to police Aug. 7 that he had returned home after a week's absence to find his house had been entered.

The glass in the backdoor was shattered and a number of soft drinks were missing. Patrolman Robert Parker investigated and concluded in his report that the break was likely the work of juveniles since valuable items in plain view were untouched.

Major U.S. Manufacturer Wants Warehouse, Packaging Plant Here

The Gillette Safety Razor Co. of Boston announced Wednesday that it is negotiating to acquire a site on Route 93 in Andover for the building of a warehouse facility and packaging plant.

The announcement came from S. Warner Pach, Gillette president, and was released by Philip K. Allen, chairman of the Andover Board of Selectmen, at a morning press conference held at Rolling Green Motor Inn.

Anticipated for some weeks, the news explains why the Board of Selectmen has placed an article in the warrant of the Aug. 21 special Town Meeting for a $1 million extension of water and sewer facilities and road improvements in the Lowell Junction area. Gillette's plans are contingent upon voter approval of this measure.

The Boston company, manufacturer of a broad line of consumer goods, holds option and is negotiating for the purchase of an estimated 140 acres of land now owned by John Kay and John Cronin in the Lowell Junction area which is part of one of the town's major industrial areas.

Initial plans are for a facility of a half a million square feet, but Gillette has already said it would expect to double this size in the next few years. The company has said, however, that this is a conservative figure and that the opening-day employment would likely exceed the estimate. Whatever the initial employment, it would double when the plant is expanded. A figure of 2000 employees has been mentioned.

Gillette will package and warehouse its line of men's toiletries at the new facility. The Andover plant would not replace any present operation, but would represent an expansion of corporate facilities.

In the statement released yesterday, President Pach said, "Studies of a number of locations have been underway for some months. At the moment, the site in Andover appears to offer the greatest potential in spite of the fact it currently lacks adequate access roads, water supply and sewerage.

"Obviously, such facilities need be assured before we can complete negotiations. We understand the installation of these improvements will be considered at a town meeting in Andover on August 21."

The Negotiations

At the press conference, Chairman Allen told of the long months of negotiation preceding the announcement.

Andover learned of Gillette's interest in the Merrimack Valley from the director of the Lawrence industrial commission where Gillette had looked but been unable to find sufficient area for its purposes. The company had seen, but already rejected Lowell Junction as well because of the obvious road and utilities problems.

The town, with the support of the office of Congressman F. Bradford Morse and through his

Erickson Rejects Big-School Idea

Supt. Edward I. Erickson rejected Tuesday the idea of a larger than 24-room elementary school for West Andover, eliminating the possibility of a change in school department policy that could have cut one article from the warrant for the Aug. 21 special Town Meeting.

Talk of building a 36 or 42 room school in that part of town, or starting a school of such proportions for later expansion was begun after the School Committee learned some weeks ago that a school needs committee may recommend a campus approach to future school construction when its final report is submitted.

If a large school were to be built, on a site larger than the 25 acres now regarded as a minimum by the school department, the town could go ahead with construction on the Cross Street property previously acquired.

Both the Selectmen and the Planning Board have expressed a preference for delaying use of this location if two schools are to be built in West Andover. It is for this reason that a proposal for acquisition of land owned by John M. and Elizabeth W. Forbes on Osgood Street is in the warrant. Town Hall officials are interested in putting off use of the Cross Street land if possible since construction of a school there could stimulate enough development to further complicate the school space problem.

Supt. Erickson told the school committee this week that he feels the board should be consistent, that he still regards a 24-classroom school as the most desirable and that he thinks the town should plan to build an elementary school to relieve crowding at Central School instead of considering construction of more classrooms than it immediately needs in West Andover. He further stated that a change in policy now could delay the school since the educational specifications for a 24-room building have already been approved by the School Building Assistance Commission. The School Committee accepted his view and voted to support unanimously all school-related articles in the special warrant. One member pointed out that the Committee has said previously it will accept any school site in West Andover and it was agreed that the board would hold to this position.

This includes support for the $1.8 million Bancroft School proposal which will be recommended to voters by the Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee as well.

The Selectmen agreed on support of the Bancroft article Monday. Selectman Sidney P. White said, however, that he felt the school would be a "terribly ex-answered.

The School Committee will support this article in toto, but it was agreed if there is to be a question of priority, the committee regards the request for library books, hard gym partitions, improvements in the surfaces of the playing fields and fencing as the key items in the long list submitted by the school building committee.

Withdrawn

After conferring with local contractors Monday, Planning Board Chairman Harold King told the Selectmen that his board will withdraw on the floor of Town Meeting the article it has in the warrant which would strengthen regulations on soil and gravel removal, particularly in connection with development of sub-divisions.

King said the contractors had raised enough legitimate questions to make further study desirable before a vote is sought. He said contractors attending Monday's meeting had indicated they favored several items in the proposed bylaw revision and expressed a willingness to help the Planning Board improve on the overall proposal.

During the discussion, Selectman Sidney P. White said he believes the article finally prepared should be presented at a regular rather than a special Town Meeting.

Chiropractor Petitions Zoning Board

State statutes and Andover zoning regulations may be in dispute on the subject of whether or not a chiropractor can be considered a physician.

The Zoning Board of Appeals has in its hands a request from Thomas F. Killeen of Lawrence and Salem, N.H. for permission to open chiropractic offices at 371 N. Main St. in one portion of a house which he expects to buy and occupy. If Killeen is a physician, he may do business in a residential neighborhood according to a local regulation which permits physicians, dentists, lawyers to use as much as 33 percent of their home for office.

If the Board of Appeals relies on a dictionary definition of "physician" as the authority for its decision, the chiropractor may qualify as a "healer".

If, on the other hand, the board refers to the state statute on the licensing of chiropractors it will find that men in this field are specifically forbidden by law to refer to themselves as physicians or doctors in advertising etc.

A hearing was held on Killeen's petition Thursday and objections were heard from residents in the area of 371 N. Main St., most of whom said they oppose the chiropractor's request because of the parking problems it would create in the residential zone.

Killeen now has offices in Salem, N.H. though he is listed with Board of Registration of Chiropractors at a Lawrence address.

Of the some 200 chiropractors registered in the State of Massachusetts so far, 16 list Lawrence addresses and four are registered in Methuen. The law permitting licensing of chiropractors in this state was approved in June of 1966. All applicants must be graduate of four-year chiropractic schools, or colleges approved by the state board.

Paul W. Cronin, began to look at what it could do to overcome the obstacles. Cronin spoke at Wednesday's conference, filling in a number of the details. He said that Gillette has not released a figure for anticipated construction costs, but that it has discussed the plant planned with Andover assessors and been told that the first phase, at present rates, would yield about $100,000 in taxes. Taxes on the land would be in addition to this figure.

This means that following expansion, the plant alone would yield roughly $200,000 in taxes. If you figure amortization on the proposed million dollar municipal bond issue at about $70,000 to $75,000, the town could expect a "profit" of about $50,000 in the first year, Cronin said.

He explained that the water and sewer work contemplated is some of that outlined in the town's master plan for improvement of these systems and would benefit all of South Andover as well as the Lowell Junction area. It would permit elimination of the Ballardvale treatment plant, which ties in also with long range plans.

Added Benefit
In addition, extension of the sewer line would make possible a tie-in for Reichhold Chemical Co., eliminating all possibility of pollution of the Shawsheen, Cronin said.

Cronin said that the road work planned would involve the straightening and widening of Lowell Junction and Ballardvale Roads. Pointing out that a bill calling for extension of Route 125 into this industrial area has been tied up in the Legislature for several years, Cronin said the town could not count on this as a solution to the Lowell Junction access problem.

Chairman Allen added that local Selectmen conferred some time ago with Wilmington officials about joint action to improve Ballardvale Street which runs along side Wilmington industrial lands also. If Wilmington is still interested, he said, it may be possible to get some joint Chapter 90 funds to help with that phase of the proposed improvements.

Speaking briefly, Wolf Berthold, chairman of the Andover Industrial Development Commission, plumped for approval of $1 million in public works funds and predicted that Gillette's location in Andover will attract other such industry. He said officials had been reluctant to recommend the expenditure until the town had a "real economic stake", adding that it is justified now because of the size and caliber of the company interested.

Town Manager Bowen told those at the conference that he had not been at all optimistic about the prospects for bringing Gillette to Andover when the matter was first broached because of all the "ifs". He said Paul Cronin, a former Andover selectman, deserves most of the credit for investing the time and work necessary to bring negotiations to their present stage.

Everyone has a choice. He can either change his ways or endure the results.

c. As a part of and set forth in any such permit the Board of Selectmen may impose such reasonable restrictions and conditions on the exercise of the permit as they deem to be in the public interest, including but not limited to the following:

1. the duration of time during which the permit may be exercised;
2. the extent, depth and contour of the area of removal;
3. the grade of the slope of the banks of the area of removal;
4. the proximity of such removal to any public way;
5. the hours of the day during which such removal may be permitted;

6. the hours of the day during which vehicles may be loaded with soil, loam, sand and gravel and during which such loaded vehicles may be permitted to leave such location;

7. the use of covers over the soil, loam, sand or gravel loaded in vehicles for removal from the area;

8. the shoring and reinforcement of the banks of any excavation; and

9. the placement of top soil and the replanting of the area of removal and screening the same from public view.

1.2 Soil Removal Incidental to Development & Construction

a. Where soil is to be removed in connection with the preparation of a subdivision, soil, loam, sand or gravel may be removed solely from the road areas down to grades indicated on the subdivision plan only after the approval of said plan by the Planning Board and issuance of a "utility inspection card" by the Planning Department.

b. Where soil is to be removed in connection with the preparation of a specific site for building, sand and gravel may be removed only after the issuance of a Building Permit by the Building Inspector. No loam, whatsoever, may be removed from the building site, but must be retained on the premises for regrading subsequent to completion of building. The use of covers on vehicles over the material being removed is mandatory.

1.3 Miscellaneous Removal of Soil (Small Quantities)

Where the removal of quantities of soil in excess of one cubic yard but less than twenty are proposed, the Town Engineer and the Building Inspector may issue a Miscellaneous Soil Removal Permit which shall show the approximate quantity of soil to be removed and the purpose of the removal. No more than a single Miscellaneous Soil Removal Permit may be issued for a single property. The use of covers on trucks over the material being removed is mandatory.

ARTICLE 18. To see if the Town will vote to amend the Zoning Bylaw by inserting a new paragraph 8.b. in ARTICLE VIII, Section V.B. 8 (Exceptions & Special Requirements) Industrial Districts as follows:

8.b. In the case of lots which are located in Industrial Districts and abut railroad property, the minimum yard depth requirement from such railroad property shall not apply if a railroad siding is to be constructed.

ARTICLE 19. To transact any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

And you are directed to serve this warrant by posting attested copies and publication thereof, seven days at least before the time and place of said meeting as directed by the By-Laws of the Town. One-Acters

Are Staged

Last week at Phillips Academy, 60 Summer Session students took part in the production of three one-act plays which had been in rehearsal for three weeks. Edna St. Vincent Millay's "Aria da Capo" and "The Bald Soprano" by Eugene Ionesco were performed in the drama lab and an audience of students and faculty saw the student production of Thornton Wilder's "Pullman Car Hiawatha."

The three plays were under the general direction of Mrs. Ellen Olivier of Hidden Field Rd. who is a member of the Andover Summer Session faculty and has worked with PA drama during the regular session.

W. Andover Housebreak Case Heard

The Lawrence District Court held one man for grand jury action and issued a warrant for another following consideration Monday of an Andover housebreak case.

Held for further court action was Allan C. Harris of Franklin, Ind. who was arrested in Andover July 25 following a housebreak at 398 Lowell St. The warrant issued was for his brother, Milton Harris who is being held in a Dedham jail on similar charges.

Harris was taken into custody by Andover police last month after a neighbor reported that someone was prowling at the Lowell Street address. Harris admitted he entered the house, but claimed to be alone.

On the basis of later information the same day police apprehended his brother with a truck in West Andover. Found in the truck were silver, jewelry and other items which the pair said belonged to them.

U.S. Patriot's Day Proposed

Patriot's Day would be a public legal holiday celebrated nationally if the Congress acts favorably on a plea made by Deputy Commerce and Development Commissioner, Lawrence J. Flynn before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee currently hearing testimony in Washington on legislation to add five more three-day holiday weekends to the calendar.

The bill, sponsored by Florida's George Smathers, would shift Washington's birthday to President's Day and have it celebrated on the third Monday in February. Memorial Day would shift from May 30 to the last Monday in May, Independence Day from July 4 to the first Monday in July, Veterans' Day from Nov. 11 to the last Monday in October and Thanksgiving Day to the fourth Monday in November.

Flynn contended that if Veterans' Day was to be shifted, it should be moved to the third Monday in April and be known as Patriot's Day, "thus giving this long-neglected date in American history the significance it so richly deserves."

This is the first time this proposal has won a formal congressional hearing, although the plan has been broached for quite some time.

Polls strongly indicate that the people of the country are in favor of longer holidays and, as Sen. Smathers pointed out, the capricious calendar puts these holidays on different days each year, causing costly disruptions of business and industry and restricting needlessly the working man who might like to get in a bit of travel or engage in do-it-yourself chores around the house.

In any event, no change is contemplated before 1970, in order to accommodate manufacturers of calendars.

Memorial Hall Library

Libraries Are People's Universities

The will to learn is a lot like religious faith. If your will is strong enough, you can "move mountains." You can learn almost anything you want if you have a burning desire to do so. Many of our nation's greatest heroes have been entirely self-educated. Take Abraham Lincoln, for instance, or Benjamin Franklin, the first apostle of "do-it-yourself education."

Whether you hold a doctorate in philosophy or were unable to complete formal high school training, you can learn by yourself if you go at it methodically and with determination. The free public library is often spoken of as the "people's university." It is truly "people's university."

It is truly "people's university" to which all are admitted FREE! Whatever gaps in your education you wish to plug, whatever new skills or new knowledge you wish to acquire, chances are that you can teach yourself at least part of the knowledge through the use of books and other materials at Memorial Hall Library. Talk over your self-education with your librarian. Why not take full advantage of your free public library - the "people's university" to which all are admitted FREE!

Books on Aging
Do you remember the story of the foolish grasshopper and the wise ant? Of course. The grasshopper fiddled around all day while the ant worked industriously to store provisions for the winter season ahead. All of us are concerned with a season of life - the so-called "golden years" - the years of retirement. Most of us plan, however, solely in terms of economic provisions. According to authorities, we should be equally concerned with "How we will keep our zest for living."

Memorial Hall Library has dozens of books on the problems of aging, creative hobbies and rewarding interests for the later years. The habit of reading - of using the library and its facilities - is probably the most rewarding of these interests.

The person who cultivates a lifelong interest in the joys of reading need have no fear of the retirement years. Every book, every idea he adds from his reading goes into the storeroom for future years. So if you don't have a library card with Memorial Hall Library, why not get one today? It will make your retirement years happier, fuller and more meaningful. Memorial Hall Library has a special shelf at the rear of the main floor devoted to successful retirement.

Flying Saucers ??

Ever since the public furor about flying saucers - unidentified flying objects - started some years ago, Memorial Hall Library has had a steady demand for books about the phenomena. The library has about two dozen books on the subject and they are requested constantly. One of the most popular books is FRANK EDWARDS' FLYING SAUCERS - SERIOUS BUSINESS. The author, a broadcaster, lecturer, and writer, contends that unidentified flying objects "are frequent visitors from outer space." He gives a run-down of UFO's past and present, with hints of their nature, possible source, and methods of propulsion and manning. Another recent book is ANATOMY OF A PHENOMENON: UNIDENTIFIED OBJECTS IN SPACE - A SCIENTIFIC APPRAISAL, by Jacques Vallee. A consultant to the U.S. Air Force on unidentified flying objects for the past 18 years, Vallee says that the subject of UFO's cannot be dismissed as mere nonsense. He urges the creation of a scientific commission to study and evaluate the UFO phenomenon. One of the most incredible recently-published UFO stories to appear is John Fuller's INTERRUPTED JOURNEY: TWO LOST HOURS ABOARD A FLYING SAUCER. The book tells the story of the education of an American couple aboard a UFO as revealed by them under deep hypnosis. Other books about flying saucers include THE INEXPLICABLE SKY by Arthur Constance, incident at exeter; the INCIDENT AT EXETER; the STORY OF UNIDENTIFIED FLYING OBJECTS OVER AMERICA TODAY, by John Fuller. The subject has been dealt with in numerous articles and these can be had by consulting the Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature.

Who Is To Blame?

Who is to blame?

Taxpayers thought they were finished for a year or two with having to concern themselves about the new senior high school when they added $700,000 to the construction budget in March of 1966. Now the manager and building committee are back with a request for more and townspeople are asking, "Who is to blame?"

Unfortunately, there is no simple answer.

If you want to hold the school department responsible, you can charge that they were overly ambitious when they drew the educational specifications which, after all, determine the size and shape of the school. This charge would not hold water. Someone, somewhere in the school department can be tagged, however, with failure to assemble sufficient detail to document the initial equipment allocation. Left vulnerable, it was pirated along the way as emergencies arose. If you prefer to blame the Selectmen (or the Finance Committee) you can accuse them of being shortsighted, for there was certainly nothing prudent about their arbitrary decision to insist that the school building committee find some way to trim $200,000 from the initial $4.4 million proposal before taking it to Town Meeting. Paper economies were made, but the specifications remained unchanged.

Or you can blame Town Meeting for the capricious way in which it lopped another $300,000 from the budget with a vote aimed at delaying construction of an auditorium. This action forced complete redesign of the building, for abandoned with the auditorium were a number of teaching stations which had to be relocated somewhere.

You can blame Washington, the war, inflation - whatever or whomever you please for the fact that construction bids came in some $850,000 higher than anticipated . . . or you can back track and blame the architects for sloppy estimating. They, after all, are the only ones involved that can claim professional background in school construction.

If you choose to blame the manager and the building committee, you can criticize them for being deluded into thinking they could cut enough here and there to eliminate the need for all of the bid-estimate differential. You can blame them too for tucking into this latest request some items which were eliminated in earlier efforts to trim the budget.

And on and on.

As of this moment, one fact is inescapable: the town fell short twice of appropriating enough money to build the school requested in the educational specifications.

Now, it is time again for decisions, the first of which must be made by the Finance Committee. Should the watchdogs be of a mind to pare the $300,000 request prior to the August 21 special Town Meeting, one word of warning.

There has to be money in the final budget for $50,000 worth of library books and another $200,000 or so for equipment directly related to the academic program. If there are to be cuts, they must come from somewhere else.

A Time For Maturity

The perpetual exchange of letters between the School Department and Town Hall has become ludicrous.

Routine matters that could be discussed and/or clarified by telephone are almost as a matter of course translated into frosty formal letters that do nothing to lessen the age-old friction between Town Hall and school officials.

Then there are the verbal digs. The Selectmen and the manager are accused and accused of being indifferent to the crying need for school sites, school buildings etc. etc. Meanwhile, from the other side of the fence, it is charged that School Committeemen show a reckless lack of concern for the needs of the larger community.

Most of it is political noisemaking, a useless exercise that wastes human resources. It reflects, nonetheless an underlying disharmony that is retarding progress.

Many times - even before the manager and selectmen were voted responsibility for some traditional school functions - there has been good cause for pique on both fronts. This cannot be denied.

But Andover is city-size and the problems she must cope with are of city-size dimension. Of necessity, her leadership must wipe the slate clean, submerge personal and political animosities and acquire at least enough understanding of separate departmental attitudes to make full cooperation possible.

The townspeople have a right to expect such maturity.

Nature's Ways

Weird Summer Affects Robins

By Wayne Hanley

If you suspect that the robins on your lawn are not faring so well this weird summer, you probably are correct.

At least the only set of robins in New England that have been under scientific scrutiny for several seasons are not doing so well this year. These robins live in West Newton, Mass. While West Newton may not be comparable to Ellsworth, Maine, nor to Kings-town, R. I., it is probable that the robins in all three locations suffer from a similar weather pattern.

In a normal spring and summer, the twelve pairs of robins that Mrs. Deborah Howard has been following would have produced 20 to 24 young robins, all now free of the nest and hunting earthworms on their own.

This season, however, these birds have fledged exactly ten robins and Mrs. Howard is not certain about the fate of four of them. In industrial terms, the gross product this season has been out at least in half.

Of the 12 pairs of robins, only three have been lucky enough to bring their eggs to the hatching point. Nine pairs, so far, have failed to produce a single young bird.

Even the non-productive birds cannot be accused of not trying. Mrs. Howard found that one robin female that she has watched closely has laid 13 eggs since early spring, without producing any young. The bird has built four nests, laid clutches, and had the misfortune to have three nests destroyed.

The heroic effort of laying thirteen eggs cannot be appreciated unless one knows the weight relationship between a robin and her egg. The female robin weighs from 75 to 80 grams and each egg she lays averages seven grams. Thus, this one bird has laid more than her own weight in eggs.

Robins were running about three weeks behind schedule most of the season. The chill, damp spring seems to have dampened their usual ardor.

"Many of the robins seemed incapable of building a nest efficiently," Mrs. Howard observed. "Ordinarily, a robin can build a nest in three days. I saw one robin spend eight days working half-heartedly with nesting material.

It almost seems as though they couldn't put their hearts into it under the weather conditions."

Mrs. Howard believes many nests were lost because foliage was so late in developing this spring. The birds built nests that could not be adequately concealed and they were robbed by predators.

In addition, she noted that house (English) sparrows and starlings were particularly bothersome to robins this season.

"A favorite nesting place for robins is in the vines growing against a building," she said. "Since the vines were slow in leafing this year, sparrows - which also nest around buildings - could easily find materials which robins took to vine nest sites and they would steal the material when the robin flew away for more.

"Starlings in my area have begun robbing robins. When a robin pulls up an earthworm, a starling will run over and pull it from the robin's bill. It has gotten so bad in my neighborhood, that when a starling lands on the lawn near a hunting robin, the robin flies away."

Down The Years

75 Years Ago - August, 1892

Some of our Andover ladies will be glad to know of the recent orders to the street car conductors, designed to make them pay more attention to their duties and less attention to silly talk and conduct with any girls on the cars who may be willing to receive their flattery and small talk. Now let the order be enforced!

It begins to look as if P. Daley of Ballardvale, who recently purchased the piece of land below the Memorial Hall intends to build. Wilson has moved the fish market to a position close to the blacksmith shop, and it is understood that J. H. Campion will have the building occupied by the Andover Laundry moved to Park Street, near his stable.

J. M. Bradley has a pretty little driving wagon, which he says is one of the easiest riding wagons in which man ever sat.

Service Warehouse Company of Boston announced last week that it will build a 100,000 sq. ft. distribution center on the Andover-Wilmington line. Even though only half the warehouse will be in Andover, this is good news for a town interested in broadening its tax base.

And this one, as a member of the Industrial Development Commission points out, is "pure gravy!" Andover will share in the benefits without having to solve any major problems. The warehouse will front in Wilmington, using Wilmington streets and Wilmington utilities.

There is one technicality to be worked out, however, Until Service Warehouse started discussing its plans for backing up to an Andover rail siding, no one had noticed that zoning bylaw restrictions on yard depth would apply in a situation like this where it is obviously important to get as near to the holdings of another property owner as possible - in this case, the B & M's.

The Planning Board is asking voters to correct this oversight at the special Town Meeting on August 21 with an article which should be given unanimous support.

BENTON, MO., DEMOCRAT: "Freedom does not confer financial security, only the opportunity to work for it."

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Many Americans who are "concerned" over the war in Vietnam (the term is a convenient one, even though in most cases an understatement!) have welcomed the opportunity to contribute directly to medical relief for war-burned and war-injured Vietnamese children which is now offered by the Committee of Responsibility Inc., a voluntary, non-profit agency sponsored by a group of physicians and educators, with headquarters at 60 Madison Ave., Suite 1209, New York City. The COR is registered with the Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid of the U. S. Department of State.

After a survey of existing facilities in Vietnam, a COR committee of competent specialists came to the conclusion that in certain cases where lifelong disfigurement and deformity are threatened (especially from napalm burns sustained by children) the only hope of rehabilitation lies in delicate plastic surgery which cannot be carried out in the overcrowded Vietnamese hospitals, inadequately staffed and often unable to provide minimum standards of sanitation. A plan has therefore been worked out for bringing severely injured child patients for treatment to the United States, where all types of therapy would be available in a carefully supervised environment.

As a first step a group of child patients has been selected and formal application made to the Government of South Vietnam for exit visas. Further information about this and other COR relief programs may be had by writing to the above address, or to the branch office in Boston at 131 State St. (Executive Secretary, Mrs. Priscilla Reyna).

Senator George McGovern stated on January 20, 1966: "... I had visited a hopelessly overcrowded hospital in Da Nang with all its torn victims of the war ... old men, mothers and infants blasted and burned by napalm jelly, some mutilated almost beyond recognition ... I wondered then ... have I done my part as a Senator to keep this from happening?" Many of us, as private citizens, ask ourselves the same question: perhaps the sense of individual responsibility and helplessness can be eased to some extent by helping in this work of rehabilitation.

Constitutional Convention Sought

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN, AUGUST 10, 1967

An initiative petition has been filed to bring about the first popularly-elected Constitutional Convention in Massachusetts since 1917.

The measure, submitted to Attorney-General Elliot Richardson for approval of its form, provides for the question of calling a convention to be placed on the ballot in 1968. If the voters approve it then, and again in 1970, the Constitutional Convention will meet in 1971 to make a comprehensive examination of the Commonwealth's frame of government and to recommend needed changes for the voters to ratify finally in 1972.

The petition's ten first signers are:

Senator John M. Quinlan (R.-Dover), chairman of the Committee for a Constitutional Convention; Rep. Chandler H. Stevens (I.-Bedford), chairman of the Citizens for Massachusetts; Rep. Michael S. Dukakis (D.-Brookline); Senator Donald Ryan (D.-Springfield);

Robert J. M. O'Hare of Stoughton; Donald P. Quinn of Newton; Joan Gormally of Salem; Robert D. Moran of Springfield; Professor Albert M. Sacks of Harvard Law School; and Dr. Nicholas A. Mastroianni of Milford.

These sponsors must now collect 61,236 additional signatures on the petition in order for it to be put before the Legislature next year. Should the General Court vote the petition down next spring, another 10,206 signatures would have to be collected to place the question directly on the 1968 ballot for the decision of the voters.

Objectives
Primary objectives of the Constitutional Convention, under the terms of the petition, would be (1) to deal with constitutional questions affecting the structure of state government and (2) to rearrange and simplify the provisions of the constitution itself, with its 89 often outdated amendments. Such a convention could go into matters like the size of the Legislature, the structure of the executive branch, county government, etc.

Specifically excluded from consideration would be the "Declaration of Rights," which contains the constitution's most historically significant provisions; the judicial system, and such matters as the division of church and state.

In addition, the convention is to be limited in size and duration. The 130 elected, and 20 appointed delegates must conclude their work within four months. They will have the benefit of ground work done by a "preparatory commission" which will do its research and make its report during the preceding six months.

Spearheading the massive signature drive are two new statewide, non-partisan organizations.

Citizens for Massachusetts is a political-action group formed "to promote concrete improvements in the machinery and policies of state government." Concurrent with participation in the Constitutional Convention petition drive, it is carrying on a large-scale membership recruiting effort throughout the state.

The Committee for a Constitutional Convention is an organization directed at placing the question of Constitutional Convention on the ballot for the voter to decide. It is not committed to a specific position on individual reform proposals, but rather is dedicated to the principle of giving the people the opportunity to restudy and reshape their frame of government in the light of complex, modern conditions.

Civil Service Reform

Vets' Cooperation Urged

Charging this week that the Massachusetts veterans preference law is "unfair, discriminatory, and harmful to effective recruitment and the quality of government," Frank J. Zeo, executive vice president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation, has urged the leaders of organized veterans groups in Massachusetts to provide the same kind of cooperation with the Legislature as their national leaders gave Congress when the national veterans preference law was passed.

Speaking before the Framingham Rotary Club, Zeo stated, "the need for reform of our state civil service system is immediate and anyone who is close to the problem of trying to recruit competent people to administer vitally important state programs has his hands tied by a totally unrealistic veterans preference law."

Zeo said, "I'm not advocating the elimination of veterans preference but merely its modification to make it more compatible with a merit system of personnel where eligibility for public employment is based on an applicant's qualifications for the job. The question is whether we are going to continue giving absolute priority to a veteran barely able to pass his civil service tests over the non-veteran of high ability - or whether we are going to join other states and the federal government in giving veterans reasonable advantage over non-veterans by using the point system, with disabled veterans getting an extra 10 points on their exam scores and non-disabled veterans five points."

"Believe me," he added, "there can be no merit system without changing the present situation." Zeo pointed out that Massachusetts, and more particularly the General Court, had shown its gratefulness to veterans by being generous with many special veterans benefits. "Massachusetts supports a unique $20 million dollar a year veterans services program for needy veterans; contributes some $150 million annually of tax support to the federal government for the vast programs of the Veterans Administration; is one of the states which paid a bonus to World War II and Korean veterans; supports two soldiers homes; offers liberal local tax exemptions for disabled veterans, their widows, and widowed mothers; offers free and unlimited university extension courses and other educational benefits to all veterans; subsidizes quarters for veterans organizations in the State House; and other benefits.

"This is the picture of a grateful state - a state which unfortunately went overboard with absolute veterans preference, a situation which the Legislature should now correct."

Murky Issue

Water Problems Persist

The municipal water department is on the defensive these days.

Usually in a position to brag about the quality of the product they deliver to customers, Supt. Donald C. Bassett and his employees are instead fending off a barrage of criticism from residents in scattered neighborhoods who want to know why the water coming from their taps is smelly and/or rusty and/or muddy and/or floating specks of black silt.

Bassett has some of the answers, and he is assiduously seeking the others. Meanwhile the pressure builds.

Monday night Selectman Sidney P. White told Manager Richard Bowen that he has had calls from irate housewives, one of whom complained that she had to take her family wash to a Lawrence laundromat in order to get it clean for a vacation trip. Another, he said, reported that the rust had eaten into her bathroom fixtures and that there might be no cure for the stains short of replacing the equipment. The Selectman also complained that he had had a problem with "black" water at his Ballardvale dairy.

White suggested that if the town hasn't the answer, it should "stop at nothing" - even to bringing in experts.

Reporting that the water department has done everything it knows how to do, Manager Bowen said that Bassett would likely put a skin diver into Haggett's Pond this week to see if there is some collection of debris around the intake which could account for the black water problem on River Road. If there is, dredging could prove necessary, he said.

Later in the week, Bowen said that consulting engineers Camp, Dresser & McKee were already on the job trying to help with solutions.

In addition, street sweepers are being instructed to use specific hydrants to supply their equipment which will prevent their drawing off water in sections where it could create problems.

And the water department will speed up and complete flushing of every hydrant, the manager said.

When the first reports of dirty water were received some weeks ago, it was explained that transmission lines in the system were being flushed for the first time in about three years and that the water could be expected to clear as the work was finished. The flushing process is routine, but was eliminated during the worst drought years because the town could not afford to use water for that purpose.

But this cannot explain all that has been happening lately. Bowen admits that officials are mystified by the River Road water condition, for example.

The manager said the turbulence in Ballardvale that affected Dairyman White's operation was a one day thing and was caused by float tests being made on the Dascomb Road line by Fire Insurance Assurers.

As for the rest, there is growing conviction that the pond must somehow be responsible. Water samples tested at the state Public Health Experiment Station in Lawrence have led the water superintendent to this conclusion, Bowen said Tuesday.

Museum Seeks Aid

Perry T. Rathbone, director of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, announced that the Museum is urgently requesting the support of state legislators, public school officials and members of Parent Teachers Associations in an effort to secure passage of a $100,000 appropriation from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Governor John A. Volpe has included the $100,000 appropriation for the Museum in the State Department of Education's fiscal 1968 Budget. It will be voted on in August when the Governor submits the supplementary budget to the Legislature.

The Museum is seeking the appropriation to continue providing free statewide educational services to schools as well as free admission for organized school groups. Over 65,000 school children from 335 schools in 116 cities visited the Museum in the past school year. Nearly 22,000 others took advantage of the Museum's extension services.

Last July, steeply mounting costs forced the Museum to impose a general admission charge which the Museum waived for one year for organized school groups pending passage of the appropriation. "Unless the appropriation is approved by the Legislature," Rathbone said, "the museum will be forced to charge an admission fee of all school groups beginning Sept. 1 and to curtail some of its current educational services."

SAFETY CRACKDOWN

State Motorboat enforcement agents will crack down on boaters who fail to have proper life saving devices aboard, Thomas J. Legere, State Motorboat Director said today.

"The law requires that life saving devices must be Coast Guard approved, in easily accessible places ready for use, for every person aboard every boat, including sail boats, row boats and canoes," he said.

Composer Performs

Composer Richard St. Clair performed a specially commissioned piano composition Wednesday in Kemper Auditorium at Phillips Academy.

The young composer, a senior at Harvard, is on the faculty of the 1967 Andover Summer Session and is teaching the inter-disciplinary course "Twentieth Century Concepts" which explores the important ideas and movements of the contemporary world through study of its music, art, and literature.

St. Clair described his new work, which was commissioned by the Summer Session, as "highly diversified but highly structured". At Harvard, he has studied music under Leon Kirchner and has also worked with Luciano Berio who is leader of what the young musician calls the "musical left wing".

JAMBOREE CAMPERS - John Danforth, Durward Farnsworth (in the background), Edgar Rossig III and Wesley Shattuck.

Scouts Attend World Jamboree

Four Andover Eagle Scouts and a camping chairman represented the North Essex council at the Boy Scouts' 12th World Jamboree at Farragut State Park, Idaho this week. The Jamboree closed yesterday.

In the contingent were Edgar Rossig III, from Troop 73, South Church; Wesley Shattuck, Troop

72, Free Christian Church; John Danforth and William Tarbox of Troop 77, Fisherman's Trust, West Parish Church; and Durward Farnsworth, North Essex Council camping chairman. Tarbox was the Council's host Scout representative.

The Scouts flew from Westover Air Base after pre-training to Logan Airport for the flight to San Francisco. From there, they took a two-day bus trip through Northern California and Oregon, into Washington state and on to the encampment.

This was the first such World Jamboree to be held in America. Attending were some 13,000 youths from Scout associations in about 100 nations, making the event one of the free world's largest non-sectarian, non-military, international youth gatherings in history.

School Uses Clarified

The School Committee approved three proposals from Committee-woman Virginia Cole Tuesday, all of which relate indirectly to the Bancroft School article for the Town Meeting later this month.

The first directs that the assistant superintendent of schools in charge of elementary education function as director of the elementary summer school program and that the program be held in the location best suited. If the Bancroft School is air conditioned, as will be recommended to Town Meeting, it will become the obvious "best" location.

The second vote approved the scheduling of in-service training programs for teachers and curriculum studies for the summer months. This puts the committee on record as having a further use for an air-conditioned school.

And the third reinforced present rules and regulations by providing that all large group rooms in public schools (such as auditoriums, cafeterias and gyms) be available for public use on a reservation basis when not in use for school purposes.

This latter vote strengthens committee policy on this point, and applies not only to any new schools but to existing buildings as well.

War Views Discussed

Two military leaders, Lt. General James Gavin and General Matthew B. Ridgeway, have voiced strong opposition to the U. S. involvement in Vietnam. Their views were the basis of the discussion at the weekly meeting of the Greater Lawrence Committee on Vietnam, held Wednesday evening at Andover Memorial Hall Library.
